Chambers Admits To Seven Lies in Jury Testimony

Judge Says Trial Talk Inconsistent With That Given to Grand Jury

New York, June 7 (AP)—Whittaker Chambers admitted today that he lied seven times before the federal grand jury which indicted Alger Hiss on two perjury counts.

Chambers, one-time courier for a pre-war Soviet spy ring and star government witness in the trial of the former high State Department official made the admission in his fourth day on the witness stand.

A few minutes previously Federal Judge Samuel H. Kaufman said he found his trial testimony inconsistent with his grand jury testimony. He granted Hiss' attorney, Lloyd Paul Stryker, permission to read the grand jury minutes.

Stryker, cross-examining Chambers, read seven portions of grand jury dialogues. Each time he asked Chambers if the testimony he gave was true or false.

Each time Chambers replied that it was false. He admitted he had committed perjury on each of the seven occasions.

In granting Stryker permission to review the grand jury minutes the judge said:

"I find that when the witness appeared before the grand jury for the first time on Oct. 14 and that his testimony was inconsistent with his testimony given during this trial."

Judge Kaufman added, however, that he found Chambers' testimony given to the grand jury from last Dec. 6 through Dec. 15 "is substantially consistent" with his testimony in the trial.

The government prosecutor, Assistant U. S. Attorney Thomas F. Murphy, said the judge's action in giving Stryker access to the grand jury minutes was "extremely unusual," adding, "He did it over my head."

Stryker told reporters, however, that it was not unusual and had happened previously in cases he was trying.

Yesterday Chambers testified he feared "kidnaping or assassination" when he visited Hiss at his Washington home late in 1937, but he stayed for supper nevertheless.

Previously, Chambers had said he broke with the Communist party about that time in 1938 and tried to persuade Hiss, former State Department official, to do the same. Hiss has denied Communist affiliation.

Cross-examination, Chambers yesterday, defense counsel Lloyd Paul Stryker asked if the witness meant that he had feared "Mr. Alger Hiss or possibly his wife would kidnap or assassinate you."

"Alger Hiss and his comrades," Chambers replied.

Chambers conceded he stayed at the Hiss home for supper, and Stryker asked:

"In other words, the character that might murder or kidnap you—you were nevertheless willing to (Continued on Page 15, Col. 5)

Bagshaw Co-Pilots Mercy Helicopter

Fort Monmouth, N. J., June 7 (AP)—A smooth-flying navy helicopter yesterday carried a seaman suffering from a fractured skull from here to St. Albans, N. Y., Naval Hospital.

The patient was 31-year-old John F. Tammany of 414 West 46th street, New York city. He was hurt while on duty at the Earle Ammunition Depot pier at nearby Leonardo on May 24.

Doctors said the patient's condition was too serious to risk a bumpy ambulance ride in the transfer to St. Albans for special treatment.

So the navy called in its helicopter. The machine landed on the Fort Monmouth parade grounds. An ambulance drove Tammany from the Fort Monmouth Station Hospital to the waiting helicopter.

Lt. Commander Christian Pink of Greenvale, N.Y., piloted the plane with Lt. (jg.) J. R. Bagshaw, 3rd, of Chester, Pa., as copilot on the 25-minute trip.

Violence Breaks Among Pickets of Stevedore Groups

Mounted Policemen Rush Demonstrators, Knock Down Passersby on Sidewalks

New York, June 7 (AP)—Violence broke out today when rival picket lines demonstrated at entrances of the A.F.L. International Longshoremen's Association.

Nearly 2,000 longshoremen from Hudson river piers joined their fellows in one picket line and charged a group of rival demonstrators.

Mounted police and foot patrolmen pushed into the battling groups, chasing them east and west on 14th street and north on Eighth avenue.

Passersby caught in the melee were knocked down as mounted police rode onto the sidewalks. Many longshoremen were felled and several policemen were struck by fists and sticks.

Within a few minutes two police emergency squads reinforced policemen already at the scene and the battling longshoremen were dispersed.

The demonstrations interrupted loading and unloading operations on 19 ships at New York piers.

The first group of pickets took up positions early in protest against what they termed discrimination in hiring practices on Brooklyn piers. Their demonstration followed a sitdown of 35 Negroes in the I.L.A. offices yesterday.

Within a short time a rival group of pickets appeared in a demonstration termed by I.L.A. officials as "an answer by loyal members to the Communist-inspired picket line."

Police kept the groups apart until the 2,000 longshoremen made their charge.

The sitdown yesterday, planned for 48 hours, ended after five hours when longshoremen ejected the demonstrators without violence or injury. The 35 claimed they were longshoremen and that their demonstration was spontaneous. However, their move was accompanied by mass picketing of the building, the march-

47 Are Lost In Ocean as Plane Falls

Craft From Puerto Rico to U. S. Develops Engine Trouble; Sinks in Six Minutes

Bodies Recovered

Three Victims Taken From Sea; 26 Swam to Safety

San Juan, Puerto Rico, June 7 (AP)—A charter plane crashed and sank in the Atlantic early today with a possible loss of 47 of the 73 persons aboard, the U. S. Coast Guard, announced here.

The Coast Guard announcement said 28 of those aboard had been rescued by 6 a. m., E.S.T.—almost six hours after the crash. The bodies of two adults and a child were recovered.

The airline's agent in San Juan said those aboard included 53 adults, 10 children between two and 11 years of age, five children under two and five crew members. Most of the passengers were Puerto Ricans bound for the United States.

The plane developed engine trouble and crashed into the sea minutes after it left San Juan Airport.

The plane sank within six minutes, the pilot, Captain Lee Wakefield, said.

Twenty-six of the survivors swam to small islands and reefs, and crews of rescue can't braved death in the churning and treacherous seas to pick them off and carry them to the mainland.

The plane, en route to Newark, N. J., via Miami, was operated by Strato Freight, Inc., a charter service with headquarters at Bradley Field, near Windsor Locks, Conn.

All available U. S. Coast Guard, air force, army and navy planes and ships in the vicinity were called into the search for possible survivors. Large surface craft could not get in among the dangerous rocks and reefs that dot the sea.

Attaches at the airport said it was raining hard when the plane, a C-46, took off.

Washington, June 7 (AP)—President Truman asked Congress today for the $150,000,000 to continue economic aids to the Republic of Korea in the year beginning July 1.

The President said in a special message such a program "is not only the soundest course economically, but also the most effective from the standpoint of helping to achieve the objectives of peaceful and democratic conditions in the Far East."

The Republic of Korea is the American-occupied southern portion of Korea.

Murray Accuses John L. Lewis of Rumor Mouthing

U. S. Tells Russia Rail Strike Peace Necessary to Trade

Wilkinson Charges Reds With Violating Pact to End Blockade of Capital

Berlin, June 7 (AP)—The United States has warned Russia that east-west trade in Germany cannot be resumed until the Berlin rail strike is settled.

Lawrence Wilkinson, chief economic adviser to the U. S. military government, also charged the Soviets with violating the agreement to lift the blockade of the former German capital.

Some 40 freight trains bound from western Germany to Berlin are stranded on Soviet zone tracks by the strike of anti-Communist western Berlin rail workers.

Wilkinson yesterday asked the Russians to re-route the trains into Soviet sector yards for unloading and said failure to try to bring the trains in constituted a violation of the agreement reached in New York last month.

Non-striking members of the Communist railroad union are employed in the Soviet sector.

The strike of 14,000 west Berlin railroad men began almost three weeks ago and no settlement is in sight. The men wanted payment of all wages in west marks rather than the less valuable Soviet-backed east marks. They also demanded recognition of their independent union and reinstatement of men allegedly fired for political reasons.

The Russian-controlled railway management offered the strikers payment of 60 per cent of their wages in west marks but refused their demands. The men turned down the offer in a referendum last week.

The Russians are reported to be anxious to end restrictions on trade between east and west.

Wilkinson's warning that the rail strike would prevent any trade agreement from coming into effect was another nudge suggesting the Russians come to terms with the strikers, who have the open sympathy of western authorities.

Connally May Ask Early Debate on Pact

Washington, June 7 (AP)—Senator Connally (D-Tex.) indicated today he may ask for early Senate debate on the Atlantic Pact.

It was approved unanimously yesterday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Connally, chairman of the committee, predicted that the Senate will ratify the historic 12-nation alliance "overwhelmingly." He said he may try to have the current debate on a new labor bill set aside long enough to permit action on the treaty.

The committee report recommending the pact was approved by a 13-0 vote after it had been charged to meet objections raised by Senator George (D-Ga.).

As written now, George told a reporter, the report makes reasonably clear "that the treaty would not empower the President to go to war or 'employ troops to enforce any particular action aimed at certain European countries without congressional approval.'"

Connally said the report aims to outline the treaty and "all its implications."

Ticket Broker Loses
New York, June 7 (AP)—License Commissioner Edward T. McCaffrey revoked the license of a ticket agency for the first time today in the city's investigation of alleged ticket scalping. The broker is the John Ahearn agency which was charged with failing to keep adequate records showing disposition of theatre tickets.

Ahearn was charged also with failing to disclose he had a partner in license renewal applications. The revocation followed investigation by Commissioner John M. Murtagh's investigation into reports that exorbitant prices—as high as $60 a seat—were paid for hit show tickets. Murtagh has subpoenaed the books and records of 32 major agencies.

Five Hurt In Crackup

Five persons were injured, three of them seriously, in a head-on collision on Route 9W near the Rondout Creek bridge shortly before 1 a. m. today, the sheriff's department reported.

Benedictine hospital authorities listed as seriously injured: Alfred Bush, 41, of Slightsburg; the Rev. Joseph MacIntyre, 47, of St. Peter's Church, New York city, and Mrs. Ella Leonhard, 42, of Pelham.

Also admitted to the hospital were Mrs. Eleanor M. Sweeney, 38, of New York city, and her sister-in-law, Miss Helen C. Sweeney, R. N., 34, of Bronxville Hospital, New York city. They are in fair condition, hospital authorities said.

According to the sheriff's department report, Alfred Bush was driving alone in his automobile south on Route 9W when his automobile collided almost head-on with another automobile driven by the Rev. Father MacIntyre. Riding with Father MacIntyre were James R. Sweeney, his wife Eleanor and their 13-year-old son, James R., Jr., all of New York; Mr. Sweeney's sister, Miss Helen Sweeney, and his cousin, Mrs. Leonhard, the sheriff's report stated.

Bush was trapped in his automobile when the doors jammed and was removed by ambulance attendants and others on the scene. All the injured were taken to the Benedictine Hospital by a W. N. Conner ambulance. James Sweeney and his son were also taken to the hospital for examination but were found to be uninjured, according to the sheriff's department.

C.I.O. Leader Says Mine Chief Is Rule-Ruin Type

Washington, June 7 (AP)—C.I.O. President Philip Murray today accused John L. Lewis of "rumor mongering" and "lack of responsibility."

He made the accusation in denial of a statement by the United Mine Workers' chief yesterday. At that time Lewis said he heard that Murray had agreed to a "pusillanimous compromise" on Taft-Hartley labor law repeal.

Lewis, in a message to all senators, said he had heard reports that Murray and A.F.L. President William Green had agreed to "four oppressive amendments" for inclusion in a new law.

Referring to Lewis as a "rule-on-union official," Murray said the Mine Workers' leader's statement contained "false and malicious libels" concerning him and Green.

A spokesman for the A.F.L. yesterday also denied Lewis' statement.

Murray said that "considering the source, Lewis' statement would be ignored except that it was sent to senators on the day when Taft-Hartley repeal debate began."

Murray's message, also sent to senators, said the Lewis statement, "admittedly based on rumors rather than fact, is another demonstration of that lack of responsibility which in the recent has so frequently characterized Lewis' actions and utterance."

Murray said that "unlike Lewis" he campaigned for President Truman and for congressmen now "actively fighting for Taft-Hartley repeal."

"Lewis speaks of 'secret' agreements," Murray said. "He can speak on this subject more authoritatively than I, since I have never in my career made secret deals."

"Specifically, I have made no secret agreements to accept oppressive amendments to the Thomas-Lesinski Bill (the administration's repeal measure)."

Asks Repeal
Murray said his own and the C.I.O.'s position have always been for repeal and re-enactment of the New Deal's Wagner Act "with improvements designed to furnish additional protection to labor's basic rights."

"Perhaps," Murray wrote Senator Connally, "it is too much to expect Lewis to examine the publication of the repeal measure."

Officials Ponder Motive In Slaying on Tiny Islet

Honolulu, June 7 (AP)—Why did Seaman Dennis S. Dwyer request duty on lonely Bikini islet in the Central Pacific only a short time before his Coast Guard command officer was stabbed to death?

The Coast Guard asked this question yesterday after naming the 23-year-old seaman as the butcher knife slayer of Lt. (jg.) Roger Devan, 24. Devan had charge of the 15-man detachment at the remote station.

Capt. J. D. Conway, 14th Coast Guard District chief of staff, said Dwyer admitted stabbing Devan near the heart—but refused to tell why.

Devan was found dead Saturday morning at the Loran (long range navigation) station he commanded at Bikini. The islet is in Makin. Atoll in the Gilbert Islands.

"One strange thing is that Dwyer requested duty at Bikini and he got there only three weeks ago—on May 14," Conway said.

"We don't get many volunteers for Bikini. Normally, any man who asks for Bikini can have it. But why did Dwyer want to go there?"

The outpost, about 2,600 miles southwest of Honolulu, has been a problem station because of its remoteness. Two enlisted men were removed from Bikini last fall for insubordination.

Crewmen at the station see visitors only when a Coast Guard cutter stops briefly about once a

Press to Get Full Story Of Sessions

Berlin Unity Is Crux of Problems Facing Foreign Ministers of Chief Powers

West Is Blamed

Pravda Says All Will Be Well, if Dictation Ceases

Paris, June 7 (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers met today in what may be the showdown on the Berlin issue.

The foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union met at the pink marble palace at 3:35 p. m. Before the meeting the three western ministers mapped their strategy.

For the first time since Thursday the Big Four meeting was to be an open one. This means a full account of the discussions will be given correspondents after the meeting breaks up.

It is expected the ministers will explain the positions on Berlin which they set forth in the three secret sessions.

Since yesterday each delegation has been studying two rival projects for restoring unity to Berlin. One was submitted by U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, the other by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky. Britain and France support the American proposal.

Each plan was an elaboration of the drafts submitted by Acheson and Vishinsky Friday when the council went into closed session in the hope of working out a suitable compromise.

Russia and the west disagreed at the closed meeting. There is little likelihood of their agreeing today.

A high French official said that because of the deadlock each side wants open meetings now to put its arguments on record.

Informed sources said the four ministers bogged down during the secret talks over the use of the veto in any four-power supervision of Berlin's city government.

These sources said the Russians want to restore the allied Kommandatura, as it existed before the blockade.

This would mean wide Kommandatura powers and the veto right for each of the four occupying nations on all of that body's decisions.

The West wants to hand over more authority to the German administration and limit the veto to essential matters involving security or changes in the city charter.

Failing to agree on Berlin the ministers will turn next to the German treaty and the Austrian pact, the remaining items on their agenda.

Some sources feel, however, that the ministers will take advantage of the remaining time to establish a deputies commission for Germany to continue the machinery of the Foreign Ministers Council.

The deputies could keep working on a German settlement and enable the council to be reconvened more easily when changes for agreement are better.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin discussed the possibilities of an Austrian treaty of independence with Austrian Foreign Minister Karl Gruber today.

An Austrian treaty is the fourth and last item on the agenda of the Foreign Ministers Council.

Bevin went from the meeting with Gruber to a conference with Robert Schuman of France and Dean Acheson of the United States.

A spokesman for Gruber said the Austrian would confer with Schuman later today.

Dr. Flemming returned to his alma mater after 21 years of journalistic, educational and governmental work in Washington. Appointed by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1939 as the Republican member of the Civil Service Commission, he was responsible for much of the Commission's part in the war program. He also has worked with the Commission on reorganization of the Executive Branch of the Federal Government. Mr. Hoover thus will assist in inducting into office his colleague on the Commission. Mr. Hoover was chairman of the Commission since it was set up by law during the first session of the 80th Congress.

The Commission recently has submitted 18 major reports to Congress, setting forth its recommendations on how to reorganize the government in such a way as to attain increased efficiency. It will go out of existence officially on June 12, one day after Mr. Hoover delivers his address at Ohio Wesleyan.

Dr. Frank J. Lausche, Democratic governor of Ohio, will deliver the commencement address on Monday, June 13 at Selby Stadium. He will speak before the second largest graduating class in the 107 year history of the university.

Bishop Francis J. McConell, retired, will give the baccalaureate sermon in Gray Chapel Sunday. The 454 candidates for degrees are but three fewer than last year's class.

16 Fall Into Sea As Boat Makes Dip

Balboa, Calif., June 7 (AP)—Two persons were feared drowned and 14 others, mostly children, were rescued from choppy seas in the tragic end of a grammar school boating trip to Catalina Island.

Survivors arrived early today at this yachting harbor to tell a horror-filled tale of an accident that swept the 16 of the decks of the sailing boat Olay yesterday as it was headed here from Catalina. Some 23 children and their escorts were aboard the craft. Ages of the children ranged from four to 16.

The Coast Guard gave this account:

The 50-foot power cruiser started to list when its gas tanks drained unevenly. As it listed, the ground swells in the choppy channel snatched it and loosened a live ball tank. The tank fell off and in doing so jolted the ship so suddenly that it almost capsized. The jolt swept overboard the 16 on decks. Some of them were able to climb back on as the helmsman righted the ship with a sudden turn of the wheel.

The others clung to life rafts. Another fishing boat, the Skipaloo, was nearby and attracted by flashlight signals, sped to the rescue. Some of the survivors were in the water more than an hour.

However, the Coast Guard said Dr. Victor Mann, an ophthalmologist of Fullerton, and Geraldine Clark, 12, Houston, Texas, a student at Valencia Junior Academy, Fullerton, were missing. The cruise was in honor of the eighth grade graduates of the Seventh Day Adventist Academy.

The others were uninjured except from fright.

Olay was able to make port under her own power.

Velde Says Truman Should Tell Why Soviet Was Cleared

Washington, June 7 (AP)—Rep. Velde (R-Ill.) said today President Truman "owes it to the American people" to explain why Russian Agent Andrei Schevchenko was allowed to skip the country without prosecution.

Velde is a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee. The committee heard testimony yesterday that:

In 1944 and 1945, Schevchenko tried to set wartime secrets of jet propulsion and plane design by bribing employees of the Bell Aircraft Company at Buffalo, N. Y.

The employees strung him along with doctored information under the eyes of the F.B.I., with pay-offs in cash.

The Russian left the country early in 1946. No attempt was made to arrest him.

The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Francy of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Loren G. Haas of Buffalo.

It was Velde who popped a question that brought from jet-engineer Haas a statement that he helped the F.B.I. build an "air-tight case" against Schevchenko but his efforts were "passed off" with word that "Mr. Byrnes at the Department says we can't touch him."

He said he got that information from F.B.I. agents whose names he cannot now recall.

At the time of which Haas spoke, in 1945, James F. Byrnes was Secretary of State. He now is in a Washington law firm. To a reporter who asked him about Haas' testimony, Byrnes said:

"I never did tell any official of the government not to arrest anyone. That is not a matter for the Secretary of State, but one for the Department of Justice and the F.B.I."

Velde, continuing, told reporters: "It is President Truman who determined the policy. It is President Truman who should make an explanation. The American people demand it."

"There may be some perfectly good reason why the Justice and State Departments refused to follow through with this case. But good or bad, the people have a right to an explanation."

Representative Walter (D-Pa.) said he had checked the Justice Department and been told that when Schevchenko left the country "the F.B.I. went completely through his luggage and his papers and found that he carried no military secrets were being taken out."

He said, too, that the case underscores a need for legislation authorizing the F.B.I. to set security rules for all private companies "where secret experimental work is being done at government expense."

The committee arranged a closed door session today to question Frank Oppenheimer, brother of the J. Robert Oppenheimer who was the wartime head of the atomic bomb plant at Los Alamos, N. Mex.

It is looking for additional information for its investigation of what went on at the radiation laboratory at Berkeley. Several former scientists at the Berkeley Laboratory have been recalled for questioning tomorrow and the rest of the week.

Yesterday's hearing was the committee's first venture into the field of industrial espionage.

Unemployment Is At Postwar Peak

Washington, June 7 (AP)—Unemployment jumped 273,000 in May to a new post war peak of 3,289,000.

The Census Bureau, reporting this today, commented that "ordinarily unemployment drops between April and May and the increase this year was, therefore, contrary to seasonal expectations."

It said one reason the number of job seekers—outside of farming—rose faster than the number of job opportunities was because school-age youth turned out for summer or post graduation work.

Because of the seasonal upswing in farming, employment moved up, climbing 875,000 in May to a total of 58,694,000—slightly above the same point last year.

Ronald Lawrence Hurt In Crash With Appa Car

Ronald Lawrence, 17, of 57 Cedar street, suffered a laceration of the forehead and injuries to the legs and arms when the motorcar on which he was riding and an auto were in collision at Cross street and Second avenue early last night.

A police report at 8:45 p. m. said that the motorbike was in collision with the front end of a car owned and operated by Rafael Appa, 115 East avenue. Lawrence was proceeding out of Cross street into Second avenue and the car was headed south on Second avenue, the report said.

The youth was taken to Kingston Hospital by Appa, and it was reported there today that his condition was "fairly good."

Mine Detectors For Sale

Washington, June 7 (AP)—The army is making available about 3,000 surplus mine detectors for sale to local law enforcement agencies to use in searching for criminal evidence. The Army Department said today that this is in response to numerous requests. The electronic devices will locate buried firearms and other objects with metal parts.

Workers Will Meet

A meeting of workers of the United Jewish Appeal will be held at the B'nai B'rith building tonight at 8 o'clock. Richard Kalish, chairman, requests that all members who received notices attend to receive further instructions.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 7 (AP)—A declining stock market searched for a steady price footing today with only partial success.

Yesterday's heavy selling, pressure relaxed considerably which gave some issues recently under fire a chance to respond to moderate demand. Buying was highly selective, however, and numerous key stocks drifted a bit further down the price scale.

Higher prices were paid for Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Consolidated Natural Gas, Public Service Electric, Studebaker, International Harvester, Glenn Martin, Schenley, Kennecott Copper, Cerro de Pasco, Union Carbide, Owens-Illinois, American Woolen, Southern Railway, Baltimore & Ohio, Nickel Plate, Gulf Oil, and Quaker Oats.

Backing down slightly were General Motors, Chrysler, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Columbia Gas, Phelps Dodge, American Can, duPont, Philip Morris, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Sinclair Oil, and Pan American Airways.

Price trends in the bond market were cloudy, with some rails under mild pressure. U. S. Governments held steady in over-the-counter dealings.

Disability Pension Claims Are Probed

Albany, N. Y., June 7 (AP)—State investigators probed today the extent of an alleged disability pension collection racket by former public workers.

A spokesman for the state comptroller's office said an investigation has uncovered about 20 violations so far.

There was no estimate as to the amount of illegal benefits collected.

About 900 former state and municipal employees collect approximately $1,000,000 annually in disability pensions from the New York state employees retirement system.

The investigation, under way since last November, so far has covered pensions paid in the Utica area and to retired state policemen. It was disclosed.

The spokesman said the alleged violators had been collecting disability pension payments beyond the legal limit in relation to new earnings from private employment.

Dies in Gas Chambers

Carson City, Nev., June 7 (AP)—Laszlo Varga, 23, was executed early today for the rape-murder of a Presbyterian minister's wife, Mrs. Blaise Phoebe Morning, 22, of Wells, Nev. He took a deep breath of gas that seeped into the chamber from beneath the chair in which he was strapped. He was unconscious within seconds and was pronounced dead by Dr. Richard Petty nine minutes after the gas struck his face.

Pollution Abatement Program Outlined by State Official

Council to Hold Regular Session; Housing Is Open

A long range program to abate pollution in New York state streams was outlined Monday afternoon by Charles C. Agar, newly appointed chief of the Water Pollution Control Section of the State Department of Health. Agar addressed about 135 persons attending the spring meeting of the New York State Sewage Works Association at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Explaining the functions of the Water Pollution Control Act signed by Governor Thomas E. Dewey on April 20, Agar presented his own views on how the state may accomplish the bill's stated purpose of maintaining reasonable standards of purity of its waters consistent with public health, fish and wildlife, conservation and industrial development.

Under the provisions of the law, the state authority may classify streams as to their use and regulate the discharge of pollutants from industries located on the stream.

The new law will apply in such instances as the large trout kill which was discovered last Thursday in the Sawkill Creek at Woodstock. Agar told The Freeman this morning and would grant the Water Pollution Control Section authority to control the degree of pollution in any stream in an attempt to prevent such things from happening.

He emphasized, however, that the process of abating pollution is a long range project involving the surveying and classifying of streams over the period of the next ten years. The pollution control section is still in its organizational stages and results cannot be expected "overnight," he said.

The primary responsibility of the new board may be stated in two categories, he said: Prevention of any new pollution of state waters, and abatement of existing pollution.

The spring meeting of the New York State Sewage Works Association convened in this city with a dinner meeting Sunday evening. Monday's program included a number of technical sessions with addresses by E. I. McCaffrey, consulting engineer for this city; William A. Ryan, sanitary chemist of Rochester; H. B. Snyder, engineer with the Wallace and Tiernan Company of Newark, N. J., and many sewage treatment superintendents of municipalities.

The concluding session was held this morning with a panel discussion on screening, shredding, comminuting and grit removal. At 2 p. m. today the group was scheduled to visit the Kingston sewage treatment works.

Harry F. Edinger, county health department sanitary engineer, was chairman of the committee on local arrangements, assisted by Ernest A. Steuding, superintendent of the Board of Public Works.

Those attending the sessions included operating engineers, consulting engineers, public health engineers, manufacturers' representatives and sewage treatment plant operators from the entire state.

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion
By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

It is not for us ordinary citizens, apparently, to comprehend the ways of politicians. How can anyone outside the White House and the cloak-rooms of Washington excuse the shocking situation whereby debate on the Atlantic treaty is put aside in order that the Senate may take up the matter of repealing the Taft-Hartley labor bill?

It is a known fact that Secretary of State Dean Acheson cabled an earnest and urgent appeal from Paris for prompt approval of the Atlantic pact. He stressed the need for a decision by the Congress to strengthen his trading position with the wily Vishinsky.

Yet, we read in our newspapers that "the Senate's majority leader, Scott W. Lucas, announced the decision after a conference of Democratic leaders with the President." It is reported that this decision was made following receipt of a letter from Philip Murray of the C.I.O.

The wishes of a labor leader therefore transcend the urgent request of our secretary of state at a time when this nation is attempting to negotiate agreements which might forestall another world war.

To our shame, further victory in our cold war with Russia must be gambled for a political decision by a President of the United States.

Is this what the citizens actually voted for last autumn while under the susceptibilities of Harry S. Truman's repeated appeals to mass emotions?

Yet, President Truman pontifically asserts at every opportunity that his great prayer is that peace will be established during his present term of office.

Current political tactics, aimed at appeasement of labor votes, is an outrageous disregard of the interests of the country and the true welfare of the whole citizenry.

One is reminded of comments by that profound student of the popular mind, Gustave Le Bon. Writing in "The Crowd" (reprinted many times since publication in 1896), Le Bon points out that "the leaders of crowds wield a very despotic authority, and this despotism indeed is a condition of their obtaining a following. It has often been remarked how easily they exert obedience... At the present day (remember, this was written over a half-century ago) these leaders and agitators tend more and more to usurp the place of public authorities in proportion as the latter allow themselves to be called in question and shorn of their strength."

How clearly we see now the power of labor leaders who have been boosted into the driver's seat during the past sixteen years of labor paternalism and castigation of capital.

Permit the addition of one more sentence from M. Le Bon: "The tyranny of these new masters has for the result that the crowds obey them much more docilely than they obeyed any government."

Today we may alter the words in the foregoing sentence to read: "The tyranny of present-day labor leaders has for the result that the legislators obey them far more docilely than they will obey any demands of the public interest."

If this sway over crowds was worrying this French psychologist 50 years ago think with what heat his pen would spill out words to-day.

How can we keep our sense of balance when Washington officials—from the President down to the minor bureaucrat—places self-interest above national interest? How can we separate the chaff from the wheat, when the chaff of political expediency is accorded the lime-lights while the sound kernels of fact are left in the shadows?

In an effort to regain some sense of stability, note these glaring contradictions.

The Administration program, for the domestic economy, remains one of high taxes, social benefits, and inflation controls. Yet, we are in a deflation which is gaining momentum because of fears engendered by the backward-looking Administration.

Similarly, our Secretary of State has been dispatched to Paris to join the Foreign Ministers of Great Britain and France in another in the long series of abortive attempts to deal with Russia—to attempt again to work out means leading to a lasting peace. Secretary Acheson might as well have flown to Mars, out of sight and hearing, for all the backing he is receiving from the Congress of the United States.

What happens while he struggles with Vishinsky?

The Congress grabs glaring headlines for the Lilliputian investigation, for the B-36 bomber inquiry, and schedules a labor debate in place of a prompt consideration of the Atlantic Treaty.

The Atomic Energy Commission and bomber cases are of sober importance, admittedly, and should be thoroughly reviewed. Nonetheless, the Paris problems should be solved first. Nothing should be allowed to distract or arouse public opinion from the major problem of the world. While the Paris conference may be running head-on into a stone wall, that of itself might, contrarily, lead to a more permanent success later. Appeasement would be failure; sticking to right principles, success. The voice of Congress is needed to confirm our position.

Dating a labor bill on the Senate calendar ahead of the Atlantic pact is putting the C.I.O. ahead of the welfare of the nation. It is political chicanery, the opposite of a fair deal for the people of the United States.

Showdown . . . Murray Accuses

said today the Big Four meeting at Paris still can be successful if the west will stop "dictating" to Russia.

A Paris dispatch in the official Communist newspaper said the "Anglo-American bloc should have understood long ago the method of dictation cannot achieve success in dealing with the Soviet Union."

Pravda called instead for a practical demonstration of the west's "goodwill toward international cooperation, classic examples of which were given at the historic conferences of Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam."

The basic principles of Russia's policy, Pravda said, was and remains "equality of all sides and cooperation on the basis of friendly agreement and mutual understanding."

The dispatch charged the western powers' attitude has blocked the possibility of agreement.

Pravda said there had been rumors before the start of the Paris sessions that the United States would seek to spread the western German regime to the remainder of Germany and added that was exactly what happened.

Fishbein Loses All Duties but That of Editing

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor)

New York, June 7 (AP)—Dr. Morris Fishbein, long regarded as the spokesman for American medicine, has been toppled from that mythical height by the American Medical Association.

Dr. Fishbein's only official job is editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association. He has never had a vote in the A.M.A.'s house of delegates—the real rulers of American medicine who are elected by the medical profession. He has not even been permitted to attend some of the secret sessions of the house.

Yet he has been called the Czar of American Medicine—even by some doctors.

Dr. Fishbein is a man of medium height, with smiling eyes and youthful color in his face. He is a noted raconteur, a public speaker who can entertain both lay and medical audiences. He is always pleasant spoken, never dictatorial.

His memory is photographic, and it seems he never forgets. He reads an entire paragraph at one glance and sometimes a page with two looks.

An author who was a dinner guest at Dr. Fishbein's Chicago home admired the big library. The author's books were there. Discussion rose about a passage the author had written ten years previously. The author named the book carrying it. Dr. Fishbein said the writer was mistaken; it was a different book.

He named the chapter, and said he had not looked in the book for ten years. Fishbein was right, the author wrong.

This book was not on medicine. On medical facts in dispute there is no record of Fishbein being wrong. This ability to be right all the time has not always endeared him to doctors.

Has Profited Association

But the ability has served the American Medical Association richly. Fishbein, in the Journal, time after time has attacked rich and powerful medical quacks with words that would have been libelous if untrue. Many libel suits were brought. He won them all, but once paid one penny damages because the Journal identified a minister of the Gospel when it was not deemed necessary.

In his role as editor of the journal he reads about 30 magazines and other voluminous sources daily. He made this journal the richest medical publication in the world. The profits do not go to him, but to pay expenses of the A.M.A.'s headquarters.

He edits several smaller medical publications, writes books, a news column and magazine stories. He makes speeches all over the western hemisphere and occasionally in Europe, and is a radio and magazine consultant on scientific and medical articles.

The trustees of the A.M.A. in Atlantic City, yesterday curtailed these activities sharply. Dr. Fishbein was forbidden to make any speeches or statements—or even give press interviews—on any controversial subjects. All his speaking engagements will be made by the A.M.A. Executive Committee, which also will supervise all his editorial dealing with controversial issues.

The trustees thus apparently have stifled the voice which has been most quoted recently in the long debates over social and political changes in medicine.

The pay-off was the elimination of his column, written in the style of Samuel Pepys' "Diary," from the A.M.A. Journal.

This was strictly a humor column—one of the best, and one of the features first read by the more than 100,000 doctor subscribers.

The Diary dealt with the daily doings and comings of Dr. Fishbein, with the people he met, their pastimes, luncheons and dinners, with state occasions and anecdotes, with the great, near-great and unknowns who touch a doctor's daily life.

Professor Wins Big Patent Case

Washington, June 7 (AP)—Louis M. Crook, a Catholic University professor, yesterday won a $5,000,000 patent suit against the government.

The Court of Claims unanimously upheld his claim to the invention of an ignition shielding system used by the government during the war to prevent electrical interference with radios in planes, auto tanks and other vehicles.

Crook, 61-year-old dean of the School of Aeronautics at Catholic University, owns 25 per cent of the patent which expired in 1944. The rest belong to Herman Jakobsson and Samuel S. Pack, deceased lawyers.

The court ruled that Crook's patent was valid and that the government infringed it in using the shield from 1937 until 1944. It called for an accounting to determine the exact amount the government owes Crook and co-owners of the patent. Some estimate this may be a minimum of $5,000,000 in royalties.

Phone Rate Increase To Bring $26,000,000

Albany, N. Y., June 7 (AP)—The New York Telephone Company has filed with the Public Service Commission schedules for rate increases granted by the P.S.C. last Friday.

The new rates, providing for temporary boosts of eight per cent on local service charges and 10 per cent on intrastate tolls, must be signed by one of the five public service commissioners before they become effective.

A P.S.C. spokesman said the rate schedules probably would be signed today, to take effect immediately.

The new rates will remain in effect until Dec. 31. In granting the boosts, the P.S.C. said they would provide the company with an estimated $26,000,000 additional revenue computed on an annual basis.

The temporary increases were authorized pending P.S.C. hearings on a company request for a 15 per cent permanent increase.

SO SHORT A TIME

The people who stayed home over the Memorial Day week-end know why there were so many deaths in traffic and other accidents in those few days, why there are so many deaths on every pleasant summer week-end. When the stay-at-homes went out to the highways, or the streets, on some errand, they were especially careful, because they knew the traffic was especially heavy. The week-end travelers could be distinguished instantly from the home folk, for they were pressing eagerly ahead, always looking for a chance to pass the car ahead, always looking for a bit of clear road where they could step down hard on the accelerator.

The people who were staying home could see that the holiday seekers were taking incredible chances in the thick stream of traffic. How strange that the travelers themselves could not realize it! But the holiday traveler is bent on getting to his destination in the shortest possible time, to begin enjoying his holiday, and he shaves the time for his homeward trip as closely as he dares, to make the holiday a little longer. There is so short a time for the outing!

So the fun-seekers drive fast, and play hard. That is why sometimes they come to grief on the road, or in the water, or just climbing a little ledge.

There will be many more week-ends through the summer. Each one will tempt some of us to try to cram an extra hour or two of pleasure into a sunny day. But does it really pay to trade all of life for that hour?

CHRONIC ILLNESS

Vast improvements have been made in recent years along the lines of sanitation, health education, medical care, and surgery. Ironically enough these improvements, which assure longer life to more people, at the same time increase the incidence of chronic illness and invalidism, which are chiefly afflictions of old age.

Realizing the necessity of coping with the problems of the chronically ill, a group of medical men, social workers and hospital executives, together with representatives of industry, labor, and civic organizations, met recently in Chicago to establish a national Commission on Chronic Illness. There now are some 1,500,000 chronic invalids, and the number is expected to increase further.

Home care, institutional care, occupational therapy and rehabilitation are among the matters to be taken up by the Commission.

The fact that the solution of a number of medical problems has led to the increase of certain others is no reason for discouragement. This situation may lead to the development of new techniques and the discovery of new medicines which will lessen the number of chronic diseases and ease their lot.

BEGINNING ARITHMETIC

Young children are often slow at grasping the abstract concepts embodied in the use of figures. This difficulty has been overcome in some elementary schools by the adoption of new methods of teaching arithmetic.

Before being introduced to numbers as such, these children are given practical experience with familiar objects. Chairs are grouped and re-grouped, toys and work materials are divided, and various articles are counted. This method of giving meaning to figures proves to be slower in the beginning than older methods, but it has been observed that with such a foundation later progress is more rapid.

Many persons who as children had no gift for mathematics reach maturity with a distaste for figures and marked inability to use them properly. If this handicap can be avoided by the use of more practical teaching methods, they should be generally adopted. Few skills are more important than the easy, accurate and comprehending use of figures.

THE DYNASTS

James Roosevelt will undoubtedly run for Governor of the state of California during the next election. In that state it is possible to run simultaneously on the Republican and Democratic tickets, it not being necessary for the candidate to be a member of a political party or to accept its principles. As a matter of fact, under those circumstances, it is not necessary for a candidate to have or to hold any principles of any kind. Governor Earl Warren, when he ran for Vice President in 1948, found that the rest of the United States did not quite understand this California fashion and it helped, as much as anything, to achieve the Republican defeat.

James Roosevelt has thus far tried to develop political careers in three states: New York, Massachusetts and California. He did not make the grade in New York or Massachusetts and it looked for a while as though he had come a cropper in California, particularly during the last election, when he opposed Harry Truman for the presidency. However, the Democratic organization in that state has fallen into his hands and his prospects now are good.

This comes fast upon the election to Congress in his home district of his brother, Junior, who has two advantages, namely, his father's full name, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and much of his father's so-called charm, which to many robust men is overdone, but which obviously goes well with the voters. Although Junior has had no experience in public or private life, which would justify his running for Governor of the State of New York or President of the United States, he is already being bespoken as prospective for both positions. In these days, when knowledge, wisdom and experience count for nothing, there is no reason why Junior should not, in time, run for both positions and be elected to both. As of the present record, he would make an inexperienced and probably an incompetent president as much as another and he would promise anything to our new type of voter who is willing to live on the United States no matter what the parasite does to the body he saps.

It will be fascinating to witness a contest between the two brothers, each claiming to be his father's favorite son and bringing his mother before the electorate to prove a point. It is unfortunate that Elliott has settled down to gentlemanly agriculture or he might have joined the hustings to our amusement and delectation. As our campaigns have a tendency to become filthy as the debate moves from promises to personal abuse, it would be soul-stirring to watch the brothers tell on each other. A nation in which one marriage out of every three ends in divorce will, of course, be shocked by nothing. On the other hand, it is neither fair nor beneficial to oppose these men because they are their father's sons, a habit of which I fear that I am as guilty as these I criticize. The sins of fathers ought not to hamper their sons' ambitions.

Of Theodore Roosevelt's sons, only one, Theodore, Junior, ran for Governor of New York state and was defeated. President Taft left a heritage of three brilliant children, Robert and Charles being the sons. Robert Taft is the finest intellect in government but he never managed to get himself nominated to the presidency. Charles Wilson, Jr., son of Mr. Taft, did not do so well. Cal Coolidge's son, John, went into business and stayed out of politics. Herbert Hoover's two sons, Herbert, Junior, and Allan, have done well on their own account and have rigidly avoided public life. The Roosevelts have produced three politicians, James, Franklin, Jr., and Elliott. John Roosevelt is in business and seems to be doing well in private life and is less publicized than his brothers. Harry Truman has only a daughter who sings.

Dynasts have not been popular in the United States, the sons of famous fathers suffering in the shadow of parental greatness. The most famous family has been the Adamases, who have produced amazingly brilliant personalities, two of whom, father and son, served in the presidency. There is no law of succession or against succession in this country—anything is possible.

PENICILLIN

A boyhood friend called me one day to ask if any more could be done for his 12-year-old boy suffering with acute heart disease, endocarditis, inflammation of the lining of the heart. He admitted that his family physician and a noted heart specialist had charge of the case, but for old friendship's sake, could I suggest anything. I, in turn, had to admit that I knew nothing that would destroy or render harmless the organisms causing the inflammation. The boy died a few days later.

Just as surgeons now can operate on defects in the construction of the heart, which defects have caused deaths (in time) of practically all cases, so today physicians are using the newly discovered drug, penicillin, and thereby are saving the lives of patients with endocarditis.

In the "Bell's Lancet," Dr. C. Bramwell says that in 1944 the Medical Research Council began an investigation of the treatment of endocarditis with penicillin at 12 research centers in Britain. He found that in his center at Manchester a favorable response to penicillin may be expected in about half of these cases; it should be possible to get an even more favorable response if the condition is recognized earlier.

How can the physician recognize endocarditis earlier, especially if a heart condition already is present?

It is suggested that in every patient with an unexplained rise in temperature, a blood culture be taken without delay. The longer the infection is allowed to run on, the greater the damage to the heart and, consequently, the greater the risk of heart failure, which is the principal cause of death. As the heart condition present before the onset of the acute inflammation may not be serious, the suggestion is that where the organisms are found in the blood, immediate treatment with penicillin will prevent damage to the heart and so the patient can resume his former occupation. Thus, what was a mild heart condition becomes a dangerous condition, unless penicillin is given early.

The Relative Importance of Great Issues

The Washington Merry-Go-Round
By Drew Pearson

Washington—President Truman would attend his family quitch, the First Baptist, oftener, except for the fuss and fanfare that occurs when he shows up for Sunday services.

Truman has strong ideas that people should go to church to worship, not to see who's in the congregation—even if the President of the United States is on hand.

"I don't like being a circus attraction in a place of worship," he has remarked on several occasions.

His pastor, the Rev. Edward H. Pruden, agrees with the President, but is always polite to people who phone him on Sunday mornings wanting to know if Truman will be there.

The Rev. Mr. Pruden couldn't resist a little good-natured chiding, however, when a lady phoned him just before services on a recent Sabbath.

"No, the President doesn't plan to attend services today," he advised the curious caller, "but God will be here."

Social Diplomacy

The full inside story has not yet been written of how Andrei Gromyko, first deputy foreign minister of the U.S.S.R., laid the groundwork for the Paris Four conference.

It is a story which involves such names as Nelson Rockefeller, Warren Austin, and especially Mrs. Austin and Mrs. Gromyko. During the past year, Gromyko has quietly broken down the social wall which normally keeps Soviet diplomats from contact with the world they live in. He has accepted frequent dinner invitations from U. S. Delegate Warren Austin, at which young Rockefeller and other broad-minded businessmen were present.

Actually, there was not much hush-hush discussion at the dinners. One informant describes them as being "painfully social." But they broke the ice between key individuals of East and West—thanks in part to the jorgid feeling that grew up between Mrs. Austin and Mrs. Gromyko.

The Austin dinners were reciprocated by the Gromykos, at their 680 Park Avenue residence. These social techniques began even before Gromyko went back to Russia last year, and those who knew his movements in that period say he went not only to Moscow but to Sochi in the Crimea, where he was a personal guest of Premier Stalin.

Stalin, apparently impressed with Gromyko's report, asked him to make a report direct to the Politburo. This Gromyko did, stating that there was a genuine desire for an east-west understanding in the U. S., and no desire for war.

This is the dinner-table background—in which the ladies played no small part—which helped soften the Soviet Foreign Office and opened the way for lifting the Berlin blockade.

Big Shipping Lobby

While Congress is supposed to be cracking down on lobbyists, the paid representative of the big shipowners are violating an early lobbying act that became the forerunner of the present lobbying law.

This first congressional attempt to put the finger on lobbyists has been on the books since the merchant marine scandal of 1936, and requires lobbyists to register with the Maritime Commission before trying to influence shipping legislation on Capitol Hill.

Though this statute has never been repealed, big shipping lobbyists pay no attention to it. Even now a flock of lobbyists are clamoring before Congress for new shipping subsidies and, out of the entire lot, only one has bothered to register with the Maritime Commission.

He is the Waterman Steamship Company's lobbyist, Don Gaslin.

Other shipping representatives, who have appeared before Congress but haven't bothered to register under the 1936 law, are: L. R. Sanford, also a former Maritime Commission employee, but now executive vice president, Shipbuilders Council of America; Frazer Bailey, president, National Federation of American Shipping; George Morgan, president, Association of American Ship Owners; Wilbur E. Dow, Jr., President, American Tramp Shipowners Institute; and Chester Thompson, president, American Waterways Operators, Inc.

As an example of the handouts they seek from Uncle Sam, they are asking Congress for a dual standard of depreciation on their ships. For the purpose of paying taxes, they want the government to grant an accelerated, 15 percent depreciation, which would completely depreciate their vessels in less than seven years.

On the other hand, the shipping companies demand that the government figure 20-year depreciation in paying for private ships it takes over in case of war.

That's the kind of lobbying the shipping companies' unregistered lobbyists are doing on Capitol Hill.

Note—To find out whether the lobbyists were registered, this column called Maritime Commissioner Joe Carson. He squirmed at the questions, demanded to know who had tipped off Pearson. At one point, he blurted: "I suppose you are recording my conversation."

Assured that he was not talking into a dictaphone, he still held back. Though the information is a matter of public record, Carson finally refused to answer any more questions.

Revamping Czech Communism

The puppet government of Czechoslovakia is doing an about-face and will take in a number of non-Communists. Also, Czechoslovakia wants aid under the Marshall Plan. However, don't be fooled by this. Actually, the proposed Czech changes are tied up to the situation in Greece.

Russia's Andrei Gromyko proposed at the United Nations that the Greek government broaden its base and hold free elections. To which Dean Rusk of the State Department and Hector McNeill of the British Foreign Office replied in effect: "How do you dare talk about democracy in Greece when you have abolished all democracy and free elections in Czechoslovakia?" To avoid embarrassment, the Kremlin has now decided to take a small portion of its heel off the neck of the Czech people.

Labor May of Itself Prevent Passage of Any Bill Replacing Taft-Hartley Act
By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 7.—Division in the ranks of labor may prevent the enactment of any bill at this session of Congress to replace the Taft-Hartley Act.

When the United Mine Workers and their leader, John L. Lewis, denounce both the C.I.O. and the A.F.L. for agreeing to "compromises" in pending legislation as a substitute for the Taft-Hartley Act, it means that an uncompromising and intransigent group will endeavor to block any amendments to the administration bill.

The fact that some administration Democrats are ready with what are called "compromise" amendments doesn't mean that President Truman will accept them or that the entire vote of the Democrats in the north will be behind such proposals.

What the split-up means is that a small group will stick to the end for the administration bill, while a virtually a vast majority of the Democrats will support the Wagner Act. Another group will seek to have some compromise amendments adopted, believing that enough Republicans and southern Democrats will be attracted by such a plan to pass it. Still a third group will hold out for the amendments which Senator Taft himself, along with other Republican senators, has proposed.

The truth is that at present if each group votes down the amendments of the other groups, no legislation at all will emerge. This is precisely what President Truman and John L. Lewis presumably expect to happen. The result would be the making of a political campaign on the Taft-Hartley Act in the 1950 Congressional elections.

If this issue can be made controlling or dominant, the strategy would be a wise one, because union labor is better organized politically today than any other group and if, after the 1950 elections, the labor unions could point to increased strength in Congress, they could probably bring about a revival of the Wagner Act without material changes.

With the 1950 election pressure as a threat, the administration Democrats might again seek record votes at the January 1950 session of Congress but would not support amendments of a compromise nature, fearing this might dilute the strength of the issue on the political front.

The unwavering belief of the labor-union strategists that time is working in their favor is a bit difficult to understand. Can the Taft-Hartley Act be made a dominant issue in the 1950 campaign? If there are serious strikes in the interim or if union labor blocks economic reconstruction by holding out for wage increases at a time of deflation, the public may develop an antagonism reminiscent of what occurred in the 1946 congressional elections when the Republicans were surprised to capture both Houses. Resentment over the coal strike and other major work stoppages had much to do with that result.

The fact that two extreme groups are eager to delay action in the hope that time will work in their favor puts at a serious disadvantage those who are working for compromise. Those administration Democrats who, despite the attitude of the White House, are seeking compromises are far better strategists than the union-labor folks. This is because any measure passed today would clarify and in many respects alter the Taft-Hartley Act, removing features that have been ambiguous and that have caused uneasiness on the labor-union side.

What is to prevent labor from asking for further revisions in the January 1950 session of Congress if a compromise bill is adopted at this session? Certainly half a loaf now and a little more in January, with a campaign in November 1950 to elect more pro-union congressmen, is a logical strategy. In answer to this line of reasoning, the belief of many union leaders is that, once they concede a few points at this session, the public may lose interest in any further changes. The best that can be said of that argument is that it proves at least the need for enactment of a compromise bill now and then for a campaign which will let the unamed and unchanged features of the Taft-Hartley Act stand on their merits—if indeed the union leaders really want anything tested on merit.

AS PEGLER SEES IT
By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, June 6.—The executive pension racket now gives thousands of fat cats of free enterprise a lien on the petty individual capital of millions of stockholders. It is no exaggeration to speak of this racket as a greedy outrage put over in the dark of the moon, for no individual small investor can protect himself. In buying his few shares of stock with his savings, he almost certainly will lack the savvy to learn whether he is buying an obligation to pay pensions of from $25,000 to $80,000 a year to a number of retired executives and their widows after they shall have expired. In lean years when there are no profits for the stockholders, the pensioners on such deluxe social-security continue to draw their checks. In that case, they are paid either wholly or in part out of the assets of the company, meaning the capital of the stockholders.

Under the so-called group insurance system with its various "plans" all couched in a hocus-focus absolutely baffling to the normal intelligence—and I do not mean the average intelligence, I mean the drain on the assets may be mitigated, but the company will be stuck for a portion of these rich pensions just the same. When the investor by luck does buy into a company which has not already earmarked and committed a large portion of its future earnings and, in the absence of earnings, its capital, he may yet be stuck for such pensions by vote of the beneficiaries themselves, that is to say, the directors and the proxy system. The statements which go out with the proxies usually are meaningless to the stockholder unfamiliar with corporation business.

So even if he does what his instinct tells him to do when his nose knows something is rotten in the board room, refusing to give his proxy to anyone, the shareholder will be stuck for the tab for the pensions, anyway. The boys will hustle up enough votes to put their pensions over, and, once that has been done, the company has a contractual obligation to pay and pay and pay. The stockholders can't revoke these obligations.

Called attention to the resemblance of this racket to the racket of the crooked unioners who have been voting themselves great salaries and allowances for life either as presidents or presidents-emeritus. The cases are similar and the similarity is no credit to the magnates of industry and commerce who have been talking about the beauties of free enterprise and the perdy of the union bosses. But they are not identical. The investor can, after all, refuse to buy into a company with a privileged group of luxurious parasites on its pension rolls, protected by contracts which give them first crack at the profits or assets. Or, if he is in and hooked, he can make his own rules. The subject can't get out unless he is willing to abandon altogether and forever his right to work his regular occupation. In fact, he runs a risk of being thrown out of the union and even blackballed from other unions, if he so much as heaves to his feet in meeting and object to the squandering or theft of union money for the luxury and pleasure of his rulers.

There is an important difference, but the stockholder will see no great privilege in his position, either. He is just the sucker who gives the party. The dollar that he put aside to buy his stock will be, for a figure, a 50-cent dollar to start with. It is a dollar that was cut in half by his income-tax the year he earned it. So, to buy a dollar's worth of stock interest means he must commit two dollars. Now he finds that with his stock certificate he has bought a continuing debt to a lot of high-priced executives who have always paid themselves very well. In many cases they have paid themselves as much as $150,000 or $200,000 a year at the expense of the faceless man during their working years but who weren't able to save enough for the after-years. The amount of the gouge taken out of his 50-cent dollar by this lavish generosity of the executives to themselves is so

It weighs two pounds inflated.

Questions-Answers

Q—In what way did the pyramids of America differ from those of Egypt?

A—The pyramids of Central America were constructed chiefly for temples or shrines, while those in Egypt were primarily built as tombs.

Q—Is greyhound racing an old sport?

A—Yes. The sport of greyhound racing is at least a thousand years older than horse racing. The custom originated in Egypt. The ancient Egyptians raced their greyhounds in open fields with a wild hare as quarry. The fastest greyhounds can average a speed of more than 35 miles an hour over a 525-yard course.

Q—Do Bible names still predominate?

A—The Puritans had a fancy for baptizing their children with the longer names of Scripture. Custom has changed and today the shorter names are more often chosen. But Bible names still predominate over those from other sources.

various that it cannot be estimated. Some apologists for the system, there being no real defenders of this rapacity, would have it that in large companies the amount is infinitesimal, but that isn't so and it would be beside the point if it were so. The point is that any man who has been paid off on pay-night, whether in sweat-bills in an envelope or a big check sent to his bank, is square with the board and has nothing coming. Let him save something in a pig bank, a cookie jar or a savings account or hang it on the old lady in diamonds, but his savings and his future are his own lookout. They are not any legislative responsibility of the stockholders who paid him fully what he was worth. Who is going to pay the stockholder a pension? What about him? Now, thanks in part to the effort and superior judgment of the high-priced executives, the stock pays six per cent. It will not always pay six per cent and the average will be less, but that dividend is paid only after the state and federal governments have taken their many taxes. So the stockholder is a big contributor to the public funds even before his own personal turn comes. Now, however, he gets his check for $100 from a company in Delaware or Jersey and that $100 goes on top of his personal earnings through the work at the office, and thus is taxed in his highest bracket. So, again, he pays half as income taxes and at this time the market gives a twitch and his stock goes down from 20 to 30 per cent. The stockholder now throws it back to the broker and pays a fee, and a tax, for the privilege of getting rid of something that is in effect a wasting disease. The executive pension racket is coming to permeate all big business and the worst of it is that the men who loudly deplore the socialism of Roosevelt and Truman, out of sheer personal greed, are driving stockholders out of the private enterprise which they so dearly cherish. Frankly, as one expert in the line confessed, it is an income tax dodge so that the stockholders would have to make up to the executives the savings that they would have amassed if they hadn't been required to pay high income taxes. A salary of $200,000 a year leaves only $50,000 so the poor executive writes himself a contract with this company which is a mortgage on the profits and assets of the stockholders.

Now the unions are coming up with demands for pensions for the working staff, too, in addition to Social Security, to which the stockholder already has contributed half. The unions are demanding "severance pay" also, meaning a gift of unearned pay from the stockholders to each incompetent or unfit man who is laid off, and payments for illness and pregnancy. The only one who is elected to pay all this is the stockholder. He is, for the most part, a fellow earning a good salary or income and the only remaining source of that venture capital that the company prospectuses talk so much about. And he is getting out of free enterprise and putting it into ten-dollar bills in the strong-box. (Copyright, 1949, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Oswald Jacoby was in my office the other day, and we were discussing six-handed Canasta. Ozzie said the best six-handed game is to have three people on a side, two playing and one sitting out. At the end of each hand, one player from each side drops out and the other player takes his place.

We both decided this would be an ideal way to play six-handed bridge. You would sit out one hand, then you would play two.

We agreed, however, that if you were sitting behind one of your teammates when he was playing today's hand you might get just as tense, annoyed and excited as if you were actually in the game. You see, the declarer made the mistake of starting in to play without bothering to count his tricks.

Counting your tricks sometimes has to be done two ways. Either count your winners or count your losers. Declarer knew that he had a losing heart and club. Therefore, he could afford to lose one diamond and still make his contract. However, the declarer I was watching did not make that play. He ruffed the second heart, cashed the ace of diamonds, and then tried to ruff the diamonds out. Eventually, of course, West had to make the nine of spades.

How easy it would have been to make the hand had he simply cashed the ace of diamonds, ruffed the deuce of diamonds with the ten of spades, returned to his hand by playing dummy's five of spades, ruffed the four of diamonds with the jack of spades, and now he should cash the queen of spades. Returning to his hand with last ace of club, the last trump should be picked up and the jack of diamonds led, letting West win with the king. Now he has held his losers for three tricks.

Masons to Make Utica Pilgrimage; 2500 Expected

More than 2,500 Masons and their families, from all parts of New York state, will leave a day earlier than usual for the annual pilgrimage to the Masonic Home at Utica, it was revealed today by Frank M. Totton, grand master of Masons in the state and vice-president of Chase National Bank in New York city. The earlier schedule means that the 63 recently appointed district deputy grand masters of the state, Grand lodge officers, and others will arrive at Utica on Friday, June 17. Usually the pilgrimage does not start before Saturday noon, on the eve of the 228th observance of the Feast of St. John the Baptist, one of the patron saints of Masonry.

Representatives of the 8,500 Masons of the Green-Elster district who will attend the pilgrimage include: Russell Colton of Tannersville newly appointed district deputy grand master of the area and Roger H. Loughran of Kingston, named to the Endowments Committee. Officers and members of the 14 Masonic Lodges of the district will also attend.

The date was set ahead, according to the Grand Master, because there is so much to be done this year. The program will include the investiture of the district deputies, a colorful ceremony which takes place Saturday afternoon in the Daniel D. Tompkins Memorial Chapel on the grounds of the Home.

Saturday morning, the fraternity will hear reports from committee chairmen. The new committees on Masonic Benevolences, with which the deputies will cooperate for the lodges of their own districts, is one of the new projects which will be explained. A report of the first year of research on rheumatic fever, supported by Masonic funds in seven research institutions in the state, will also be heard.

Another new project has been the launching of Masonic War Veterans. Incorporated in April, the deputies will be expected to assist in the formation of new posts of Masonic veterans in their own districts. Still another first is the start of the restoration program at the Home, which will take 10 years and about $400,000 to complete.

Although transparency is the distinguishing characteristic of fine American handmade glassware, it is made almost entirely from opaque materials.

The housing conditions among the more than 20,000 immigrants who have been settled in abandoned Arab villages is truly pitiful. Yet thousands now in the camps are clamoring for the opportunity to set up homes in these ruined places.

The people of Israel are doing all that can be expected of them—and more—to resettle the immigrants from all corners of the world. But what they are able to do with their limited resources is not enough. The Jews of the United States must provide the United Jewish Appeal with the funds to meet the critical situation of the immigrants.

I have had an opportunity to witness the miraculous achievements in the Negev desert, which is being transformed day by day through the ingenuity, the determination and the blood and sweat of the pioneering young men and women of Israel. I have walked on the sacred soil of Negba and Beth Eshel, where the soldiers of Israel stood fast against the superior numbers and arms of the invaders.

The Jews of America should feel privileged at having an opportunity to repay these heroes and these survivors for their unyielding stand, which baffled the military experts.

No one in Israel is crying or complaining about the present difficulties. All of them appreciate American Jewry's help. Both Mrs. Lehman and I are firmly convinced that American Jews have done much. But we must do more.

We must call on all Jews in the United States to intensify their efforts on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and rush all possible cash aid immediately. This is urgent.

The Kingston Jewish Community, in order to meet its quota of $165,000.00 in the United Jewish Appeal this year, is having a Campaign Opening Fund Raising Dinner on Sunday, June 12, at 7:30 p. m., at the Svirsky Hotel on Route 9W. Invitations, (for which reservations must be mailed in at once), have been sent out for this dinner—and anyone wishing to attend can secure reservations by phoning U.J.A. ## Scientist Church Annual Meeting

Exterior View of The Mother Church

Addressing several thousand Christian Scientists, attending the annual meeting on Monday at Boston of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, the directors viewed with satisfaction the worldwide stir in human consciousness to discard the material for the spiritual. Physicians, they said, are giving more importance to thought in relation to disease. Naturalists, they added, are gaining in their recognition of the insubstantiality of matter. Religious leaders, everywhere, they pointed out, have developed a widespread sense of the need and reasonableness of greater and more direct evidence of spiritual power. In various other directions, the directors continued, there is a strong urge to look beyond mere human means for the establishment of stable government. The directors' statement and the election of Miss Emma C. Shipman to the presidency for the ensuing year sparked an annual meeting filled with reports of marked progress in the Christian Science movement throughout the globe.

Promising Tablet Helps in Cases of Stomach Ulcers

Atlantic City, N. J., June 7 (AP)—A new and "distinctly promising" tablet treatment for peptic (stomach) ulcers was reported to the American Medical Association today.

It involves use of tablets containing two chemicals—sodium carboxymethylcellulose and a small amount of magnesium oxide. The tablets are designed to combat acid in the stomach.

Dr. S. P. Bralow of the Hines Veterans Hospital, Hines, Ill., and Dr. M. A. Spiegelberg of the University of Illinois School of Medicine made the report with several other colleagues.

They said the tablets serve to coat the lining of the stomach "with a protective" layer and "buffer" acidity for a prolonged period of time.

"We feel," the doctors reported, "that the new preparation" represents a valuable addition to the armamentarium for the treatment of peptic ulcer.

It is believed that no other drug or method known will have an equal all-around effectiveness in most ulcer patients. It is true that therapy (treatment) must be individualized, and it is necessary in each case to determine the drug which will bring about the most favorable response.

Dr. Bralow said, however, that "our new preparation ranks among the best of the group of drugs available for ulcer therapy and deserves a wide trial and critical follow-up."

The doctors described tests involving 105 patients treated by the new method and 100 patients treated with an aluminum hydroxide preparation, one of the standard treatments for peptic ulcer.

During a one-year follow-up, 23 per cent of those treated by the new method had relapses necessitating hospitalization, while 34 per cent of those receiving the aluminum preparation had relapses. At the end of the year 61 per

Historical Group Met on Saturday

About 30 members of the Ulster County Historical Society attended the spring meeting Saturday at the society's headquarters at the Beaver House in Marletown.

A committee consisting of Myron Teller, Mrs. Sturgess, John Davenport, Mrs. Seaman and Hamilton Boyd was named to prepare a slate of nominees as trustees. It also will nominate executive and other committees and officers for the coming year.

At the close of the meeting, a paper was read by the president of the society on "Reur. Admiral Robert Wilson Shufeldt, United States Navy, Author, Diplomat and Naval Officer." Admiral Shufeldt, a citizen of Ulster county, signed a treaty on May 22, 1882, as the representative of the United States with the government of Korea. This was the first treaty Korea made with any western power and was followed by treaties with Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Russia. Shufeldt also was the messenger sent to Mexico at the time of the Civil War by President Lincoln in connection with the effort to drive Maximilian from that country. Admiral Shufeldt served in a diplomatic capacity under Presidents Lincoln, Hayes and Arthur. He died in Washington, D. C., November 7, 1895, at the age of 73 years. He is buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

Greek Plane Crashes

Athens, June 17 (AP)—Twenty-two persons, including a Greek Army general, perished last night in a plane crash 17 miles north of Athens. Maj. Gen. George Kotzias, military governor Kavalla, was among the victims.

cent of the patients treated by the new method were entirely free of symptoms, as against 40 per cent in the other group.

The doctors declared the new medicine "is not only non-constipating but also conducive to normal elimination."

Do You Remember

Who remembers some of the Indian stories which have been handed down from generation to generation in Ulster county? From time to time I hear some and it is the most interesting to have names, dates and places from this locality. There was the Indian Chief Amicorop, who lived in Rosendale, owned land in the town of Wawarsing around 1699 or the 1700's. There is some record of his business transactions, I understand.

I have received items on the select boarding schools of some years back. Have one of the 1850's called Select Board School, at West Camp, Ulster county. Primary and higher branches of English and languages were taught to both male and female students. "Every attention paid to the intellectual and moral advancement of the pupils." Tuition for English branches, including board and tuition was $25 per quarter of 11 weeks. French $8 extra. Music together with the use of the piano $10 extra.

Mrs. C. C. Whitaker, principal of the female department. There was also the Saugerties Academy and Boarding School with the Rev. W. S. Parsons, A. M., principal and Miss C. Parsons, principal of the female department. The trustees of this institution, recently incorporated by the Regents of the University of New York. In this school, the usual branches of a thorough English and classical education together with French, German, vocal and instrumental music was taught. Rates of tuition for day school, per quarter of 11 weeks for primary department, $4; higher English and mathematical $8 extra. A limited number of boarding scholars was received in the family of the principal. As the 1855 item read: "It is the desire of the principal not only to furnish the best educational facilities for his pupils, but also to provide a home for them." Terms: All expenses for board, tuition, etc., except modern languages and music, $200 per annum, payable half yearly in advance. (This information from "Literary Sketch Book and Monthly Family Magazine" December 1854, Vol. 1, No. 3, loaned by Mrs. Harry C. Jump, of Port Ewen.)

Following from advertisement covering Newburgh Business items from Alva Family Migration: "Village Hall Store, 81 to 83 Water street, 20 distinct departments. I am constantly receiving large lots of goods from auction, all bought for cash; which makes it impossible for small stores and time buyers to compete Village Hall prices! Always something new, rich and cheap to be seen at this Palace of Fashion. Your attention called to new silks, shawls, de Laines, poplins, chasels, alpaccas, mantillas, Canton cloths, broad cloths, mourning goods, shirting and sheeting. Millinery goods of every description. Groceries, sold less than New York wholesale prices. Respectfully, I. H. Soper, proprietor."

Forecast Favorable Business Outlook

At a recent regular luncheon meeting of the Kingston Rotary Club, William E. Zimmerman, principal economist and acting director of the Bureau of Business Research of the New York State Department of Commerce, presented some very interesting facts on the outlook for business in the West.

He particularly stressed the western movement of industry during the expansion of our country and expressed the opinion that this situation has stabilized itself and that New York State will be the beneficiary of considerable industrial expansion during the years ahead. The high average of purchasing power and employment in New York was mentioned as a stabilizing influence in cushioning changing business cycles. The rugged character of the terrain of the state was mentioned briefly as a natural protection from atomic radiation in contrast with more level areas.

In substance, the speaker, who also is editor of The New York State Commerce Review, forecast a favorable, though more competitive, industrial development and outlook for individuals and industry in New York state.

F-90 Passes Test

Los Angeles, June 7 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force's newest twin-jet fighter, the Lockheed F-90, has tried her sweet-back wings—and they work "beautifully." The adjective is that of chief engineering Test Pilot Tony Le Wier. The air force disclosed yesterday that the F-90 had the needle-nosed aircraft aloft for 37 minutes, climbing from a desert runway at Muroc Test Base to an altitude of 15,000 in 10 minutes.

Jobs' 'Honeymoon' Is Over, Declares Placement Officer

New York, June 7 (AP)—The honeymoon in job placement is over, and the "boys are actually letting" the employers interview them," says Robert F. Moore, director of placement, Columbia University.

Job placements this year, Moore reports, are a little better than the last normal year, 1939-40. The greatest demand seems to be in accountancy. Salaries range from $225 to $450 a month, depending upon the profession and the educational qualifications of the student.

Each year Moore conducts a career clinic at Columbia. For eight weeks, college students hear leading industrial, management, personnel and professional figures get down to cases in advising which job to seek, what to study to prepare for a career, where to look for a job and how to get a job.

These clinics have proved so successful, says Moore, he has written a book, "How to Blue-Print Your Success," which probably will be the basis for a course for credit he plans to offer at Columbia. Only one other university in the country—Indiana—offers such a course for credit.

Here's what Moore tells the boys in his career clinics: Ask yourself, "What am I? What do I want? Where do I fit?"

Most people fail in a job, he says, not for lack of skill, but for failure to possess such personal qualities as the ability to express oneself orally and in writing; ability to get along with people; patience in attaining goals; perseverance; alert minds; not necessarily Phi Beta Kappa, but more than merely willing to get by; leadership ability; adaptability; proper attitudes and mobility.

The interview is the first important step in getting a job. It's a 50-50 proposition. The employer finds out what you have to sell that he can use. The interviewed discovers whether the company offers opportunities to satisfy his aims, interests and qualifications.

Moore offers some practical tips on how to get ready for an interview. He tells the boys to learn something about the job and the company. This calls for self-analysis of your objectives, aims and interests. "If you are looking for a management job, don't go in dressed like a sloppy Joe," he says. "Look like an executive."

Looking for a job is a business. Keep it on a business basis. Keep appointments and acknowledge letter of prospective employers. Go in with your best foot forward. If you're not up to par, don't go in. Visualize yourself in the interviewer's shoes.

Don't, warns Moore, think in terms of the money you are going to make right off. The first five years are really an internship.

In good times or bad, concludes Moore, jobs exist if you can find them. It's up to you to go find them and sell yourself.

More Reuther Rewards

Detroit, June 7 (AP)—A $200,000 reward was offered by the C.I.O. United Auto Workers today in the search for the assailants of Walter and Victor Reuther.

The union thus doubled its previous $100,000 reward offer in last spring's shooting of Walter Reuther—adding another like sum in the attack last May 24 on Victor.

This brought the total rewards in both attacks to $218,500, including offers from the Detroit City Council and other groups.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

Somewhere in Normandy, June 7 (AP)—War hurts the land less than the people who live on the land.

And this story could just as well be dated "With the American forces in Normandy in memory."

Because, soldier, if you come back you'll find that's all the war now has come down to here. Just your own memory—bitter or sweet.

The American army came in its pompous power, and passed on just as a small army with more pomp in previous centuries came and passed.

But the imprint of William the Conqueror is heavier on the land today than Eisenhower the First. And Willie was a big shot here almost nine centuries ago, whereas Ike was here only five years ago.

The difference probably boils down to the fact that vigorous William—the man who dared to cross the English Channel that Adolph Hitler didn't—was a home town boy. And all of us who came here under Ike were only military transients to the steadfast natives of Normandy.

We probably didn't really have too much to offer the Normans. They are rugged and crochety and freedom-loving individuals just as we like to think we are. They drink cider as we do. And they have a thing called "Calvados"—a form of brandy more delicious than anything any American hill billy ever stewed from corn, raisin or potatoes.

It is a kind of French vodka in a hairy bottle.

The Normans are florid peasants who differ from Iowa soil

merchants only in that they prefer the horse to the tractor and they still would rather die and go to Heaven than live and retire to California.

They aren't show-off about this. They just believe that life isn't as hedged in by the hedge rows they dwell among as it is confined in wider countries that put their faith in modern plumbing. Here indoor plumbing isn't a fact so much as it is a fancy upper class adventure. The Normans have already looked at foreigners who came into their green and cow-filled land pretty much as we do a bad cold—something that will come and pass away, something to put up with for a time, but not forever. And that is the way it has always been. Come war or peace, their big problems have always been to get the apple trees picked and the big red and white cows milked.

They are a silent, sturdy, flax-haired, rosy checked people who insist on doing their farm chores though the world around them go down in flames. Paris, Moscow and New York may erupt in ruinous flower from atom bombing, but the Norman will still jog to church on Sunday, dressed in a black suit. And he'll get the milk home in the evening pail. Nothing will change the pattern of his life except death, and he accepts this interruption of his routine only because his grandfather did.

So it will always be as it has been for centuries. Hundreds of thousands of Germans and Americans and Britains fought across this soil five years ago. Normandy was choked with their noise and their weapons. What is left? the graves of those who stayed.

The Norman peasant gave the world a historic battlefield. But he never let himself be drawn too much into the struggle. He speaks a few words of English, a few words of English—but he still understands the language of his milk cows better than anything except his own close-mouthed family.

His land is as loyal to him as he is to it. The scars of war have been covered with lush grass and surging trees. Come back today, soldier, and you'll find it's hard to find the place you fought in. It is now only in your mind.

The land has outgrown war here and forgotten it. It has healed itself, just as people, who grow more slowly and cure themselves less easily would like to. It holds no memories of what people would like to forget—and can't.

Youth and Old Age

By FRANK THIPP

The circus will be coming to town pretty soon now, to your town and mine. The banners, billboards and barn doors will herald Summer's happiest day to boys everywhere.

Some of the boys who can hardly wait are grown-up men with children of their own, and grandchildren. Not only boys and old men like circuses; girls and old girls aplenty like them too.

It's a pathetic thing to become blasé about the circus. It's a sure sign that pitiable antiquity is creeping up when one pools the things that brought joy into his youth.

Keeping young in spirit isn't very hard to do. One only needs to remember what thrilled him once and try to get a kick out of it when years stiffen his joints and dim his sight.

Recollections are precious things. We don't respond to them enough. As we get older we are likely to cast off and dispose of rejuvenating flashes of memory as foolishness of youth, which we should be above in later years; even deny that we ever were so silly. That's a fast way to become older than we need to be.

THEN COMES THE TIME, if they stay here long enough, when men live most; in the past; when today's events concern them little. They bore people with oft-told tales. Their youngsters take them by the arm and say, "Come along now, we've got to be getting on our way." There was no hurry at all; just the kids were ashamed of dad. I suspect I'm getting there, if indeed I did not long ago arrive at the stage where my family winks at guests as I unfold a thriller. I'm wise to them when they hurry visitors out in the yard to see the flowers.

Then, all of a sudden, an old bird pulls a fast one and the young bloods admit he's handy to have around. Such as when, with all their modern wisdom, they can't get a cork out of an old-fashioned bottle; and marvel at the facility with which the old man can extract it.

Even then like as not they'll comment that he'd be better off if he hadn't been so expert at removing corks. They forget that everything he ever had he got the hard way—even his schnapps.

I'LL PROVE I'm getting old by retelling this one: Up around the general store a young squirt home from college was lamenting to the local yokels that his father was a good guy but still an outdated old fogey.

A pal of his father's wouldn't leave his old friend without a champion. "Why, you young whippersnapper, your father has forgotten more than you'll ever know," he said.

"What do you mean," said the kid; "he's 25 years older than I am, but only one day ahead of me."

"How do you get that way?" asked the old-timer.

"Well," said the kid—and got himself back in local favor by saying it: "Pop can get up in the morning and tell what kind of a day it's going to be. I can tell that same night what kind of a day it was."

So age and the happiness and heartaches that experience brings lets the dad sit at least one day ahead of the youngsters they rearer sent away to school and got back home full of cockiness, doubt and maybe Communism.

Too often they're full of newfangled ideas about the old-fangled things which made their every comfort and opportunity possible. Too often ashamed of the old dad and mother who suffered privation that their children might have advantages which they missed.

I'LL NEVER FORGET Joe Finn. He came from a family of nine; was the only one his father, Mike, could afford to send to college. Joe worked hard and became a big railroad executive, in the engineering department.

A local service club had a father and son luncheon one day when Mike couldn't lay off. While the town's big shots lunched with their snappy dads, all doled up for the occasion, Joe Finn walked in with his father.

Mike wore his overalls, soiled by the work he's just left; and patched. A blue banana handkerchief stuck out of his hip pocket. Chief Engineer Joseph Finn said to the assemblage:

"Pardon me, gentlemen, for interrupting your lunch, but my father has to get back to his work, cannot remain for the program. I'd like to introduce him now. This is Michael Finn, my dad—the man who saved to give me an education. He is a section laborer on this division of our railroad—and I'm mighty proud of him."

The others' dads and slow going after that little speech. (Copyright 1949, General Features Corp.)

ALL IN THE TONE OF VOICE

A man expresses his objection to an earlier column, as follows: "In a life spent (or possibly mispent) in the insurance business, I've been a stranger on the outside of the front door many times. My own dear mother was a very proud woman and a frigid 'Yes?' was her way to greet a stranger. This was your first suggestion to a reader the other day. Your second, of asking 'What is it?' seems to me to be only five per cent better. My own preference when the person is a stranger, is to ask, 'What can I do for you?' or 'May I help you?'"

Your answers would be excellent for a person who in any way serves the public—such as a salesperson in a store—but not in greeting a stranger at your front door. "Yes?" can be said in many ways and it can be asked politely and kindly and with interest and not necessarily as a frigid rebuff.

When Widow Is Wrong
Dear Mrs. Post: Is a widow calls herself Mrs. Mary Doe, should others still address her as Mrs. John Doe? In other words, if she herself follows wrong practice, should others ignore her preference and follow correct form?

Answer: Address her as Mrs. Doe whenever possible. When called upon to give a full name, I agree it would be rude to call her Mrs. John Doe when you know she calls herself Mrs. Mary. If you're not sure which she prefers, then call her Mrs. John Doe, which is proper.

Toussing Without Drinking
Dear Mrs. Post: I'm going to a wedding reception at which I know champagne will be served and toasts drunk to the bride and groom. What can I do without being rude when I don't drink anything strong?

Answer: If there is no non-alcoholic beverage in which to drink the toast, you simply raise the glass with everybody else but you need not sip from it.

Clergyman the Exception
Dear Mrs. Post: Does the officiating clergyman also wear a white boutonniere at the wedding ceremony?

Answer: No.

Mrs. Post's booklet, No. 501, "The Etiquette of Weddings," gives details for the ceremony and the reception. To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 15, N. Y. ## Care of Case

By James H. Winters
When polishing or dusting any fine furniture one should always rub with the grain, never across the grain or in circles. The reason for this is that any fine particles that may be on the surface or in the cloth will tend to produce very fine scratches and, as the furniture was rubbed with the grain at the factory, these fine lines will tend to blend in with the original rubbed finish.

On new furniture we recommend sandpaper of the corresponding color, mahogany or walnut; silicone now comes in these and other colors. On old and checked cases a mixture of half crude oil and half turpentine will help to restore color.

Drop in at 316 Fair Street and see our lovely new Silpats that have been sanded. After sanding the richness of the wood shows up to best advantage and it makes dusting very simple. Also this heavy protective film of wax saves many small marks.

Actors to Hold Auction For Unwed Mothers

Beverly Hills, Calif., June 7 (AP)—Want to buy Ann Baxter's old parlor chair? Van Johnson's six hand-painted beer mugs? Or the engraved silver box, on a necklace, in which Joan Leslie's grandmother carried her "mad money?"

These and hundreds of other items will be auctioned June 13-16 in moviedom's most glamorous white-elephant sale in years: Loretta Young drummed up the auction for the benefit of St. Anne's Maternity Hospital for Unmarried Mothers.

Some of the items have the antique look of family heirlooms, like Loretta Young's six Brazilian silver coffee spoons. Loretta Young is represented by an old silver tea box and demi tasse cups. Also by cufflinks which she cheerfully admitted, she swiped from her husband.

Other donations range from hams to television sets and costly gowns. Auctioneer Roy J. Goldenberg thinks the whole display, previewed yesterday, is worth $50,000.

The flag of Cuba was designed in a New York rooming house and first flown over a New York building in 1850.

Block Dance Success

Rosendale, June 7.—The block dance held on James street Wednesday evening was fairly well attended considering the chilliness of the weather. # Morgan Tossers Shade Staubles 4-3 To Tie For Second Place

Misplays Figure In Two Markers

Morgan's Restaurant used four hits with exacting economy and Stauble's contributed a pair of costly errors at the Restaurant's cued out a 4-3 victory in the City Baseball League action at the Athletic Field.

Ernie McCormick permitted only four hits and fanned six but Morgan's hit him when it counted. Hokie Thomson was the winner although he needed help from Artie Barnes in the sixth when Stauble's rallied for three runs.

Morgan's built up a 4-0 margin before the Bakers chased Thomson from the hill in the sixth. Tiano's walk, Ferrell's sacrifice and Tom Heneberry's double to right center picked up the first tally in the second.

Errors Hurt Bakers
Two juicy misplays were fuel for Morgan's fire in the fourth. After Heneberry opened with his second double, Lang threw Sonny Barnard grounder into the first at first and Heneberry scored. A single by Stoll and shortstop Jackson's bad peg accounted for the other tally. Morgan's closed out their scoring legitimately in the fifth via a walk, fielder's choice and Ralph Tiano's single.

Thomson Fans Nine
With nine strikeouts to his credit, Thomson was breezing along beautifully when Stauble's struck in the sixth. They put together a walk, singles by W. Jackson and Sleight and Bill Olsen's bouncer for three tallies. Thomson departed in the midst of the bombardment and Barnes choked off further damage in the seventh.

Heneberry was the leading swatman with a pair of doubles, while W. Jackson and Bill Olsen hit safely for the Bakers.

Jones Dalry's seeks its fourth straight today against Frank's Sport. Bill Windburn (0-0) will go against Big Jack Watzka (1-1).

Boudreau at Third

Cleveland, June 7 (AP)—With Manager Lou Boudreau shifted to third base, the Cleveland Indians today appeared to have successfully completed the first phase of their desperate reorganization program. Ray Boone given the shortstop position in the switch made two dramatic errors as the Tribe blasted the Philadelphia Athletics 11-5 last night. But Tribe officials credited them both to unusual pressure of the occasion. And at the plate, he smashed three singles and drove in a run.

Leon A. (Chief) Miller, lacrosse coach at City College, N. Y., for 18 years, was a football and track teammate of Jim Thorpe at Carlisle Institute.

The Wiltwyck Brochure:

"Heel print in trap? Tough luck . . . play it!" That's what it says here in a brilliantly conceived brochure on Wiltwyck Golf Club activities. It is the brainchild of Frank Stone, the tournament chairman at Tommy Danaher's layout and like a hole-in-one, it should happen at every golf course. Stone obviously spent many hours compiling the data which concerns all the club's tournaments during the season and explanatory notes about the different types of tournaments.

For instance, if you are one of those poor duffers with a limited grasp of golf terminology, the brochure should help you. And it should obviate all alibis about not knowing what is going on at your club, a social disease that afflicts many of the nation's nineteenth hole centers. This book tells all and asks all players to submit periodic scores unless they participate in blind bogey sweepstakes. It makes no mention of a disbursement for a lie detector for the handicap committee but the idea is popular and may yet sweep all of golfdom.

Those Mixed Twosomes et al:

The two-ball mixed foursome is a popular form of golf, a pleasant escape from the doldrums of routine medal play. Stone points out that this type of play has many possible tangents. For instance he mentions the four-ball twosomes, the two mixed foursomes, the Scotch doubles and the nineteenth hole liquidation. With proper promotion all of these games might achieve widespread popularity, he believes. We think he has done a nice job and deserves a hole-in-one for his efforts. The front page of the brochure points up the club slogan: "Undilute that Clique." A plausible goal, to be sure. It ends on a sober note: "We're not perfect—tell us what is wrong and sign your complaint, and we will cooperate. . . ." Clubhouse lawyers, please note.

Jason Goumas' Quotes:

City League Review—the league is more solidly organized this year with umpires in every park. Jim Woods and Chris Bowers are at Block Park; Bill Scott and Dada Tomasside at lower Hasbrouck; Molly Majewski at upper Hasbrouck; Hank Houghtaling at Sailer's and Walt Schmidt at St. Mary's. The men in blue are to be commended. They are always there and take a lot of abuse smilingly. Good to see Big Ben Toffel still chucking for B'nai B'rith. Upsets are part of sports and Potter Brothers, who were Village Rest in 1947, maintained their mastery over Subway Grill beating them, 5-2. In 1947 they defeated Subway twice to capture the National division title. Tom Gualteri is one of the top boosters of softball in Kingston. He's a good sponsor and has never been known to be a poor sport and wears that perpetual smile, win or lose.

Tommy Provenzano also rates highly as a sponsor. His Royal Grills were defeated by Subway Grill last year, three games to one, for the city title. Milton Lumber has perhaps the youngest club in the circuit, averaging about 18 years. Too bad we didn't have a Junior softball league like the 1938-42 setup. Cy Markowitz and Jim McLennen have replaced Sid Halpern and Walt Schmitz as managers of B'nai B'rith and Shuler's Inn, respectively. Vince Noble has a grand slam homer to his credit this season. Andy Murphy credited with a masterful job of revising the schedule after the signing of several new teams.

MULLIGAN MIKE SAYS: Jason Goumas, author of the foregoing paragraphs, will become sports editor of the New Paltz State Teachers College publication next fall. Good luck, Jake.

Stamford Defeats Colonials In Series Finale on Two Hits

Riescher's Boners Decide Contest

When more grotesque ways of blowing a ball game are conceived, count in rookie Ray Riescher of the Colonials.

Twice within a week he has pulled the kind of stunt that drive managers to strait jackets.

Here was the situation at the municipal stadium last night in the sixth inning with the Colonials and Stamford Pioneers locked in a 2-2 tie.

Riescher, who had permitted only one hit in seven innings—Scotty Kaproski's triple in the fourth—started by walking Pavone on a 3-2 pitch. The sacrifice play was obvious.

Pavone bunted neatly down the third base line. Everybody in the park knew Riescher had only one possible play—first base. But he picked up the pitch, fired desperately to second—too late.

Again the Bunt
The bunt is still obvious with runners on first and second and no outs. Callahan bunted almost to the identical spot. With all the time in the world for a routine force play on Pavone at third base, Riescher uncorked a wild throw past Gerald Murray and two runs clattered across the plate.

But the little drama wasn't over yet. Riescher committed his second balk and then blunked Jack Stein between the ribs with a fat fast ball. Manager Julie Laviano then led the kid safely and Art White finished the frame.

On Memorial Day in Poughkeepsie, Riescher was involved in another cause celebre when he accidentally made a pitch too good for Manager Dutch Weingartner while in the process of doing out an intentional pass to the Chief's skipper. Weingartner reached out and poled a single to right for an 8-7 victory.

P.S.—The Colonials lost, 5 to 3. And the Pioneers collected only two hits.

Otto Switches

Cleveland, (AP)—Otto Graham, whose T-quarterbacking paces the Cleveland Browns magical offense, has switched from hotels to insurance. He recently resigned as sales manager of a local hotel to join an insurance firm headed by Carl Brubaker, one-time National pro League official.

When the New York Giants set the major league consecutive victory record of 26 in 1916, they won all 26 games at home.

SUBWAY GRILLS GAIN FIFTH VICTORY

Milton's Lumber outslugged Subway Grill, 14 hits to 11, but home runs by Maines and Schatzel enabled the Grills to register a 5-4 decision, their fifth in six starts.

Joe Amato was the winning hurler and struck out seven men. Kozlowski was the losing finger.

Putz Brown pitched four-hit ball for Fullers and had a shut-out until the seventh when Schuler's scored twice. In the Fuller first, Rose singled, Titus sacrificed and then followed singles by Andy Murphy and Don McCollum and doubles by Moe Osterhoudt and Rip Mathews.

Frank Roe and Andy Murphy each had two hits off Lowe, with Osterhoudt and Mathews poking double.

LeFevre-McClements Win Medal Play; L. Randall-D. Kennedy Cop 2-Ball Tourney

Ernie LeFevre and W. R. Clements won the medal play tournament with full handicap Saturday at Wiltwyck Golf Club with net 66s.

Several Wiltwyck golfers including Maurice Davenport, Bill Van Aken, Dr. George Rifenburg, Louis G. Bruhn, Henry Leininger and pro Tommy Danaher were in Albany today for the one-day tournament at the Albany Country Club.

Another White Win?
New York, (AP)—Although Ben White already has won the Hambletonian four times, he will seek his first victory in the race this year. A horse named Ben White, trained by Charlie Thomas and named for the famed driver is eligible for the trotting classic, won four times by Driver White. The horse Ben White is owned by Bill Strang.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

By The Associated Press

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

This tightest of all National League pennant races, has everybody going around in circles. Even Ford C. Frick, highly optimistic president of the circuit, never dreamed it would be anything like this.

The Dodgers took advantage of defeats by New York and Boston yesterday with a 5-1 night game triumph over Pittsburgh to dead-end the Giants for the top rung. Don Newcombe, recently brought up from their Montreal farm, pitched the Brooks into the tie.

Newcombe Puts 11.
The Giant Negro right-hander, hurled a four-hitter against the Bucs. He struck out 11, high for the league this season. A wild pitch in the eighth cost him a shutout.

In the meantime, the Dodgers collected eight hits off loser Bob Chance, including a home run by Duke Snider, a triple by Gene Hermanski and doubles by Hermanski and Newcombe himself.

Howie Fox pitched and batted the Reds to a 4-3 victory over the Giants. He not only scattered eight hits for his second triumph over the New Yorkers, but singled in what proved to be the winning run in the sixth.

The high flying Cardinals made it five victories in their last six road games and 12 out of their last 14 starts by thumping the Braves, 7-3. Two three-run innings—the sixth and the ninth—did the trick. Enos Slaughter's sixth home run helped. Red Munger, who needed help from Ted Wilks in the eighth, was credited with his third victory. The loss was charged to Warren Spahn.

The two scheduled games in the American League resulted in Detroit losing its undisputed possession of second place, and Cleveland moving past Chicago into sixth place.

The Tigers were nosed out, 10-9, by the Red Sox, who overcame a 5-2 deficit with flurries of three runs in the seventh and five in the eighth.

Stephens Hits 14th.
Only a heroic relief job by Ellis Kinder saved the game for Boston. He relieved winner Tex Hughson in the ninth with the Tigers one run behind, men on second and third and nobody out. Kinder walked Johnny Groth purposely to load the bases, and retired the next three batters without allowing a further score.

Yankees' Stephens' 14th home run of the season, tying him with teammate Ted Williams for the league lead, was the big blow for the winners.

The Indians, with Manager Lou

Boudreau playing third base for the first time since his minor league days, exploded for nine runs in the eighth inning to come from behind and defeat the Philadelphia Athletics, 11-5.

Mike Garcia, who pitched shutout half after replacing starter Steve Gromek in the fifth, was credited with his fourth victory. Joe Coleman was the loser.

All other clubs were not scheduled.

Giants Get Higbe For Relief Roles

New York, June 7 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates used their brief stay in New York to complete a couple of important deals and register a complaint about another.

The Pirates shuffled two veteran pitchers—Kirby Higbe and Bob Munciel—off to National League rivals yesterday for two players and a small bundle of cash.

Higbe went to the Giants for infielder Bobby Rhawn and pitcher Ray Poat. Munciel was sold to the Chicago Cubs for the waiver price of $10,000.

Meanwhile, Frank McKinney, president of the Bucs, accused Branch Rickey of peddling off a sore-armed infielder on him in a deal a month ago.

McKinney said outfielder Marvin Rackley had an ailing flipper when the Brooklyn Dodgers traded him to the Pirates for outfielder Johnny Hopp and $25,000 in cash.

He said he would file a formal protest with Commissioner A. B. Chandler when he returns to his Indianapolis home tomorrow.

Volcanic Upheaval Might Halt Picture

Rome, June 6 (AP)—The eruption of a volcano may halt Ingrid Bergman's latest motion picture now being filmed on Stromboli.

Stromboli's 3,400-foot volcano began lively eruptions yesterday after two explosions shook the tiny island off Sicily's coast, the news agency Astra said.

However, both the Swedish actress and her partner-director, Roberto Rossellini, were reported in Rome. An R.K.O. agent here said the Italian director arrived yesterday for "business talks with his lawyer."

Stromboli, main scene of the Bergman-Rossellini production, "God's Earth," is a semi-deserted, lizard-infested volcanic dot four hours by steamer from Sicily. Its volcano is said to be the only constantly active one in the world.

Yesterday's eruptions, however, were bigger than usual. Lava is flowing down the uninhabited slope of the island, but the blow-offs may halt filming of Miss Bergman's volcano climbing scene.

Etna Is Rumbling
Catania, Sicily, June 7 (AP)—Old Mount Etna Europe's highest volcano is rumbling again.

The 10,758-foot volcano is more active than usual, producing frequent explosions and occasional showers of cinders. The activity began several days ago in apparent connection with new eruptions on the volcanic island of Stromboli, north of Sicily.

Professor Ponte, director of Etna's Volcano Institute, said the increased activity gave no cause for alarm.

Etna last blew her top in February, 1947. There were no deaths.

Wants Independent Dairymen in Body

Watertown, N. Y., June 7 (AP)—The New York milk marketing administrator believes 16,000 independent dairymen would benefit by affiliating with farmer cooperatives.

Charles J. Blanford said last night that dairy farmers of the New York milkshed could find the "best means for effectively marketing products through their co-operative associations."

He spoke at the opening of Jefferson county's five-day "dairyland festival."

Blanford said the cooperative marketing idea was "encouraged" in both federal and state milk marketing orders. He referred to 70 farmer cooperatives operating in the six-state New York milkshed.

"If the 16,000 independent dairymen were to throw the weight of their influence behind a concerted marketing program," he declared, "the problem of the disposition of their milk would be greatly reduced."

Blanford urged all dairymen to participate in referendums conducted under the marketing orders he administers.

Less than five per cent of the independent milk producers voted in referendums last year compared to 99 per cent participation by cooperative members, he said.

Bakery Strikers Seek To Go Into Business

New York, June 7 (AP)—Some 4,000 union bakers and bakery drivers, idled by a strike-lockout for 14 weeks, are going to try to bake and deliver their own bread.

Horman C. Cooper, attorney for Bakers' and Drivers' local unions, said he plans to confer today with a spokesman for the Eastern Division Council for Cooperative Development.

Cooper said the council, a "coordinating group of large cooperatives throughout the country," had been "wanting to break into the New York area for some time."

Unions are surveying shutdown plants in the area which might be used as a bakery.

The work stoppage began with a strike by 100,000 hundred drivers against the Continental Baking Co. Feb. 28. They asked a $10 weekly raise over their $55-a-week wage. Continental and five other major producers of white bread immediately shut down their plants.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, June 7—Fred Woecken, Jr., has arrived in Shokan to spend the summer months with his parents at their home in the west end of the village. Fred is violinist in the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra and formerly was with the Dallas Symphony.

Jane Gulnack, Ashokan young woman, who for the past several months has been secretary of the Onteora school district, recently passed her state Civil Service examination with an exceptionally high mark and it is expected the board of education will place her on a permanent basis.

Edward Wiederspiel, Jr., of New York was here for the weekend. Ed has rented his mountain road farmhouse to Sam Regan, a New York furniture dealer. Mr. Regan with his wife and three children will occupy the place shortly after school close in the city. This is the old time David Furman farm, a girlhood home of Mrs. Jervis Bell of Hurley and Mrs. Marvin Hendricks of Pine Plains.

Curiosity, or possibly neighborliness, killed a farmer; Gerald Moore, 20, of the town of Afton, Delaware county, noticing a fence post as he was driving along the road, investigated and touched a barbed wire over which a broken 4,000-volt power line had fallen. Death came instantly to the young man.

Pleasant sights along the Trail these days include the white peony blooms in the Angelo DiNizze front yard (the former Paul Engler farm in Ashokan).

Word has reached here of the marriage May 14 in New York of Carol Munson Windrum to Walter Kelly. The bride is the daughter of Ray A. Windrum, native of Shokan who later resided at Kew-Holbrook.

Graduation day for the Onteora school district has been set for Thursday, June 23, at 8 p. m., in the Phoenix Theatre. Dr. Frederick J. Moffitt of the State Education Department will give the commencement address. All seats will be reserved until 7:50 p. m. when the doors will be open to the general public. The theatre accommodates only 326 persons but any overflow that night will have the benefit of public address speakers. Commissioner Reginald Bennett will award the 4,000 B.C.

Guards Held Up, $19,000 Is Stolen

New York, June 7 (AP)—Two armed guards of the Wells Fargo Express Company were overpowered and robbed of $19,000 in payroll funds at 9:25 a. m. today in front of the main entrance of University Hall on the Columbia University campus.

Officials of the university said the guards were carrying the cash from the express truck to University Hall when the robbery occurred.

As the guards approached, two men emerged from the main entrance of University Hall, overpowered them, and fled down an outdoor stairway on foot. They climbed into an auto parked on a campus driveway and drove west toward Broadway.

A girl employee who neared the building as the holdup occurred, immediately ran into University Hall and told officials of the hold-up. Within two minutes, according to university officials, six police cars swarmed into the campus.

The express truck was making its regular daily delivery of funds to be used as the payroll for building and grounds employees at Columbia.

The truck was parked on Broadway, between 118 and 119th streets, and one member of its three-man crew remained in the vehicle. Two others, guard Charles E. Reuther of 88-26 184th Place, Hollis, Queens, and an unnamed messenger whose name was not immediately available, walked toward the administration building.

Police said the pair was approached from the rear by the robbers, who told them, "this is a stickup." After warning the expressmen to make no outcry, the robbers took Reuther's gun and the money, fled across the campus to their car.

Police said that the third member of the truck crew, apparently was out of sight of the robbery scene and unaware of the hold-up.

Chambers Admits

sit down and have supper with him.

"That is right," the witness answered.

Defense counsel asked Chambers if he had not testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities that "Mr. Hiss was a man of great gentleness and simplicity."

"He was," Chambers replied.

Hiss is charged with lying to a federal grand jury last December in denying that he gave State Department secrets to Chambers; and in denying that he had seen Chambers since January 1, 1937.

Chambers, who had named Hiss as a source of State Department secrets to be passed on to a pre-war Soviet spy ring, yesterday named Julian Wadleigh as a second State Department employee who he said helped him obtain government secrets.

Henry Julian Wadleigh, formerly of the State Department, declined comment on the testimony yesterday when reached at his home outside Washington. Wadleigh also declined comment last year when his name came out in similar testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

The name of Julian Wadleigh came out yesterday after Chambers said he had had a "confederate" in the State Department's trade agreement section who was not Hiss.
